The 5th Annual Maralynne D. Mitcham Lecture

“How do you know that what you do as an OT really works?”

At the end of the session, participants will be able to:
1. Describe “ways of knowing” that occupational therapy is effective
2. Discuss why “evidence” of occupational therapy’s effectiveness is necessary
3. Describe “evidence” of occupational therapy’s effectiveness

Dr. Margo B. Holm is Professor Emerita of Occupational Therapy at the University of Pittsburgh. She is a Fellow of the American Occupational Therapy Association, and the recipient of the Eleanor Clarke Slagle Lectureship and the Award of Merit. She is a member of the AOTF Academy of Research with grant funding from multiple federal agencies and foundations and she has authored 215 publications. She was a Fulbright Scholar to the University of Jordan, and a Fulbright Specialist to Soonchunhyang University and Yonsei University in South Korea. Dr. Holm’s research agenda has focused on assessing the functional status and outcomes of clients receiving medical, surgical, psychiatric, and rehabilitation interventions. Dr. Holm is co-author of the Performance Assessment of Self-Care Skills (PASS), which has been translated into 11 languages and adapted for cultural relevance.

The Maralynne D. Mitcham Lectureship Fund

In 2005, The Maralynne D. Mitcham Lectureship Fund was established to create, in perpetuity, an annual lectureship program for the Division of Occupational Therapy at the Medical University of South Carolina. The fund’s purpose is to honor the collegial spirit, leadership skills, and mentorship of the late Dr. Mitcham and promote a day of sharing and fellowship for the profession of occupational therapy. More specifically, the lectureship will be awarded each year to a scholar in the field who has a broad perspective on occupation, an international reputation, and one who has made significant contributions to education, practice, and/or research in the field of occupational therapy. Such a scholar will enhance the education of health professionals within the college and community, and provide an opportunity for presentation and dialogue around key intellectual issues of the time, thereby fostering the vision and mission of the University.
