RECOMMENDATIONS AND INFORMATIONAL REPORTS OF THE PRESIDENT

OLD BUSINESS: None.

NEW BUSINESS:

Chairman Stephenson stated not everyone had met Mr. John Hicks, the consultant who is leading the search for MUSC's president. He thought it would be good for John to give a general report of the outline and timetable of the search. He reminded everyone that no specifics of candidates should be discussed in open session.
Mr. Hicks said that, in higher education circles, it is considered that the most important function of a board is to appoint leadership. He reported that he came to the University in October and met with a number of faculty and staff and talked with some board members and legislators and community members to develop a profile of the position to use as the main recruitment tool to attract top quality candidates to the position. The profile is public and is on-line. He highlighted the attributes of the successful candidate as follows:

- MUSC is a talent rich academic community in a time of historic change in the healthcare delivery systems. MUSC is also part of an economic hot bed in the community with Boeing and others coming to Charleston. So there is the issue of how a university that has been in Charleston for so long and done so well will continue to be vigorous in its growth and in growing its research and patient care profiles in this changing environment and in continuing to support the community in what it is doing. That is the overall challenge that the new president is going to have.
- The new president needs to help build a vision that will help set the course for the university for the next ten years at least and be a measurable vision that could be tracked to determine if the university is on course.
- The next president must be a very effective external advocate for the university in the state, nationally and even internationally. Particularly, the people of South Carolina need to understand the enormous role the university plays in the state and the importance of their support for the institution.
- The next president needs to support the three-pronged mission of the university by promoting the further integration of academic, research and patient care components.
- The next president will have to be a leader in building fund raising and support for the proposed Women’s and Children’s hospital project which will be about a $100 million project.
- The next president needs to maintain a robust, high-quality research environment that will enable faculty to obtain the necessary support to grow the portfolio for the university.
- The successful candidate needs to be a leader in helping develop multi-disciplinary programs among the colleges and with external partners to anticipate the rapidly changing demands of the healthcare environment.
- The next president needs to have an MD or PhD or other terminal degree, with experience and understanding of the complexities of academic healthcare and the healthcare delivery systems.
- The next president needs to be a strategic thinker, a motivator, committed to personal excellence with the ability to balance the needs of multiple constituencies. The successful candidate needs to be someone with experience at a large scale multi-faceted organization.
- The president should have a strong fiscal management background given the financial complexities of the university.
- The president needs to understand the current healthcare environment and the new models of delivery to help the university anticipate what’s coming and being ready for it and being a leader in getting there.
- The president needs to be an open and energetic manager that welcomes innovation, sets high standards, makes difficult decisions and engenders confidence among faculty, staff, students, patients and all constituencies.
The next president needs to be committed to diversity and engaging in the assets of a diverse constituent-led organization.

Those are the attributes that are being sought in the successful candidate and broadly covers where the search is going. The task is to conduct the search which was launched on November 18 and applications will be accepted until the position is filled. The search committee will begin reviewing applications on March 5 to narrow the list so that by mid-April three or four candidates could be brought to campus for meetings with faculty, staff, trustees, etc. After the campus visits, the search committee would give its recommendations to the board around April 25.

Item 6. MUSC Medical Center Status Report

MUHA Status Report

Dr. Patrick Cawley shared an excerpt from article in the October issue of the GSF Business that talks about how the SC economic environment is improving. The article points out that the Charleston market has benefitted the most in the state from the rising economy and Charleston is 9th top performing city in the nation since the recession ended. Dr. Cawley pointed out that the article mentions the key drivers for the Charleston market's performance include MUSC, Boeing and SPAWARS.

Dr. Cawley gave an update on progress with the strategic and operational goals. Cawley reported that under the service pillar, we are doing well in the Adult inpatient and the Peds ER areas, but have opportunities to improve patient satisfaction in the other areas. Under CGCAHPS, we have moved from 0 to 1, but need to get to 3 to meet goal. Under Quality, we are close to reaching our CAUTI goal of 7.3. The CLABSI goal is a very aggressive goal and we must continue to work towards meeting this goal. Under the finance pillar, Cawley reported on the Huron recommendations. Cawley reported that the initial midpoint target Huron identified prior to coming to MUSC was $57.5 but once on site, additional savings were identified and the midpoint target increased to $64.8M. $49.6M has been implemented to date and $19.2M has been confirmed. As the year goes on, more of the savings will move to the confirmed column with the majority of savings hitting the bottom line by the end of the year.

Dr. Cawley gave a quick update on the new MUSC Health Plan. The new plan will go into effect in January 2014. It is anticipated that this pilot insurance plan will run for 2 to 3 years.

Dr. Cawley announced the leadership of the new MUSC Center for Telehealth - Dr. James McElligott, Medical Director and Mr. Shawn Valenta, Program Director.

Dr. Cawley gave an update on GME Task Force. Cawley mentioned that the full draft of the report came out last night and copies were emailed to the Board members. This draft report will go to the committee next week. Cawley shared that the potential for MUSC to be hurt by the recommendations is significant. Extensive conversation around the task force recommendations/report ensued.

REGULAR Items

Mr. Brian R. Wiese, KPMG Partner – Healthcare, presented an overview of the FY 2013 audit results. The audit was performed in accordance with U.S. – GAAS and Governmental Auditing Standards. MUHA received an unmodified opinion on the 2013 financial statements indicating fair presentation in all material respects. He reported full cooperation was received from management and staff; KPMG was given full access to all records and there were no disagreements with management on accounting issues or financial reporting matters.

He offered internal control observations in the following areas: enhancing controls over system access and change management; enhancing methods used to value patient accounts receivable; documentation of purchasing card statement reviews and monitoring of investment agreements. He reported there were no recorded audit differences and reviewed four unrecorded audit differences. He reviewed healthcare industry focus points as well as recently issued accounting standards.

He noted the Management Letter for the Authority including responses from management and KPMG is very comfortable with those responses.

Recommendation of Committee: That the report be received as information.

Item 27. Information Technology Update.

Dr. Frank Clark, Vice President for Information Technology, presented an update on the Office of the Chief Information Office (OCIO) security efforts. He reviewed the mission and role of the OCIO security program stating the mission is to Protect MUSC’s information from: loss, corruption, and unauthorized access by providing up-to-date and robust security technology tools and software. The tools and software include: firewall, mal-ware, virus-ware, spam filters, encryption, intrusion detection, MDM, 2FA, audit tools, network sniffer, data-loss prevention, government, risk, and compliance software, etc.

He was pleased to report that since the implementation of MDM and 2FA 22 lost mobile devices have been recovered and scores of phishing attacks have been prevented.

The Senate Finance Committee held a meeting in February to discuss the state’s Department Of Revenue cyber security breach. Richard Gadsden, MUSC’s Information Security Officer participated in the session which prompted the following comment from Senator William O’Dell on MUSC’s information security technology tools: “It would be prudent of the State to do what they (MUSC) are doing.”

Dr. Clark concluded by saying technology alone will not save MUSC since the human element remains the weak link. He said more education is needed with stricter enforcement and consequences. We need to create a culture of information security at MUSC.
