Special Neurology Lecture
May 14, 2015
10:00 am
Storm Eye Auditorium

Vladimir Hachinski, CM, MD, FRCPC, DSc, Doctor honoris causa
Distinguished University Professor of Neurology and past Richard and Beryl Ivey Chair of the Department of Clinical Neurological Sciences, University of Western Ontario, London, Canada

Presents

“Careers in Neurology in a Globalizing World”

Objectives

1. Certain principles remain valid, such as doing what you love doing, taking the long term view and realizing that the more you sow the more you will reap
2. Neurology is advancing at an accelerated pace, offering many career opportunities
3. Professional organizations such as The World Federation of Neurology are fostering closer links among neurologists worldwide