Fundraising remains strong

As we conclude the third year of the campaign for the MUSC Shawn Jenkins Children’s Hospital, we are pleased to report that we have received more than $108.9 million in support of the new hospital. This is about 87 percent of our $125 million fundraising goal.

We have been so gratified by the people, organizations and businesses who have stepped up to make this campaign such a success so far. However, we also know that the final 10 or 15 percent of any goal can often be the most difficult to raise. And the fact is, we have reached a point in the effort where we simply cannot afford to lose momentum.

Indeed, we now are working to raise funds for the programs that will breathe life into the structure now rising from the ground in downtown Charleston, including pediatric cancer, heart, neurology, GI and many other areas. These funds will add both depth and capacity to our clinical offerings, greatly enhancing the level of care we can provide the children, mothers and families we serve. For that reason, this phase of our campaign is critically important.

To learn more about the campaign for MUSC Shawn Jenkins Children’s Hospital and how you can help make it a reality, please visit:

http://imagine.musckids.org/hospital/