

Training in Grantsmanship for Rehabilitation Research Successes and Testimonials

I still recommend the TIGRR workshop as the most valuable faculty training workshop that I have attended since starting as a faculty member two years ago. Having that focused time to work on grants, get feedback from multiple mentors, and learn more about the different funding agencies was invaluable. Of course, the K12 award and mentorship it provided not only let me attend this excellent workshop but gave me on-going mentorship and feedback.

I just wanted to drop a note to say a huge - THANK YOU! Also ... now that I have funding ... I think you need a TIGRR 2.0 for new PIs once they've gotten their first grant. There are tons of resources on writing and preparing grants, but very little on how to effectively manage grants and tips and tricks for doing the best possible job of spending tax-payers money.

Take care and thanks again!

Kat M. Steele, PhD
Mechanical Engineering
University of Washington

Hello Dr. Segal,
I'm still doing great at Pitt and will be moving to Chicago this summer. I will start working at the Department of Physical Therapy, University of Illinois at Chicago, as a tenure track assistant professor this fall.

I want to share this news with you, and I appreciate your mentorship on my grant application at the grant writing workshop.

I believe receiving the grant was a big plus on my job hunt. Thanks again and please keep in touch.

Best regards,
Yi-Ting

“Brilliant, the best 2K my boss has ever spent. He will say, of course, “prove it”, and I feel now that I can!”

fabulous workshop!

The faculty was excellent and I greatly appreciated the sense of community and sense of humor that underlie this group. The indirect benefits are innumerable.

Hi Dr. Wolf,

I am a former TIGRR participant who was in your group last year. We exchanged a few emails when I was preparing a grant proposal in the summer. I wanted to let you know I was awarded a Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan Foundation Grant for my proposal entitled, Getting a Grasp on Stroke Rehabilitation. It is a scaled down version the proposal I was working on at TIGRR.

I wanted to let you know how much I appreciated your feedback and support at TIGRR and the ability to follow up with you for additional advice this last year. You can't imagine how much your words of encouragement mean to me! I will keep you apprised of my efforts. I am going to submit to NIH in the fall. I will most certainly take up your offer to seek additional advice from you as I move through this process.

Kind regards,
Diane E. Adamo PhD

“This was a transformative experience and previous attendees were correct when stating this was one of the most important experiences of their career.”

For me it could not have been better – opportunities to receive mentorship from such a varied and distinguished panel of experts, to mingle with peers, to write, think, consult and receive critiques. As the TV ad says, “Priceless”.